Anniversary Celebrated

1 Oct. 1963

NAPANEE (Staff) — Surrounded in their home by family, friends and flowers, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Exley of 12 Bridge street east, celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding Sunday afternoon. Mr. Exley will be 91 in November, and his wife has just turned 80.

Their wedding took place Sept. 30, 1903, at the home of the bride, Ethel Windover of Roblin. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Prosper Neville, Methodist minister on the Roblin charge.

The bridesmaid, Miss Pearl Spencer, now Mrs. Wolfe, poured tea Sunday afternoon at the diamond anniversary. The flower girl, Beulah Spencer, now Mrs. William Little of Toronto, telephoned her congratulations during the day. The groomsmen, Robert Embury, died the year following their wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Exley have lived all 60 years of their married life in Napanee. The couple was blessed with five children, one of whom died at the age of eight. A second son, Walter, former county clerk of Lennox and Addington, was killed in an automobile accident three years ago.

Their other three children are Mrs. Marian Howitt of Toronto, Mrs. Jack Caldwell, Napanee, and Douglas of Fort William, who was unable to be present Sunday.

They have 12 grandchildren. There are also two great-grandchildren in British Columbia.

Mr. Exley was for 33 years a government employed liquor inspector. During part of that time he was also inland revenue officer. In these capacities he travelled over the whole of the very long county of Lennox and Addington, and often to Ottawa.

Mr. Exley has a fund of anecdotes originating in his duties as an inspector. A few years ago he tape-recorded for the County Historical Society some of his reminiscences of the county, his work, and the people he had known during his lifetime.

Nowadays Mr. Exley does not leave the house often. He likes to look over the papers, and to play solitaire. Mrs. Exley keeps busy with household duties, and she too likes to read. They enjoy an occasional game of bridge, quite often with their daughter Vivian and her hus-

Kingston Music Club Asks Citizens' Support

There is an organization in town that does a lot of worthwhile things, musically, both for those who like to listen to music, and for those who are musicians of varying degrees. It is the Kingston Music Club, and it has been arranging musical evenings for a good many years — supplying opportunity, a stage and an audience for many deserving local people, young and old, who play instruments or sing. It band. When Mrs. Exley's eyesight was better she knitted and crocheted a great deal.

Messages of congratulation came to the Exley home from the Queen, from Mr. Pearson, Mr. Diefenbaker, Premier Robarts and Mr. Norris Whitney. Also present at Sunday's celebrations were Douglas Alkenbrack, MP and Mr. George Tustan, former MP, and Mrs. Tustan.

Surprise visitors during the afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jameson from Hamilton, relatives of a son-in-law, and Mrs. Jim Boa, Toronto. The Rev. T. J. Raby, of Kingston Mills was another visitor, also Mr. Merkley Windover and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Windover, cousins of Mrs. Exley.

also gives encouragement to musical artists in the awarding of gold medals and scholarships. One very rarely hears of this organization in terms of money-raising, but obviously money is needed for its continued existence and operation.

Like other cultural organizations in the city, the KMC seeks to expand its membership, and this year is sponsoring an all-out drive. There is only one prerequisite for prospective members and that is that they are interested in listening to, or performing music.

Tomorrow, the club will open its 1963-64 concert series with a two-piano recital by Margaret McLellan and Joan MacIntosh, both well known Kingstonians.

Citizens willing to give their time to promote good music in the community, could lend support by buying a membership in the Kingston Music Club.

Once a Leading Athlete:

Walter Exley Napanee's Sport Expert

By SALLY BARNES
Staff Reporter

NAPANEE (Staff) — One of the real experts on sports in this town is Walter Exley of Bridge street. There is a reason for Mr. Exley's knowledge of the many various games.

Now in his 90th year, he keeps the same close watch on the sport scene that he did some 79 years ago when this town knew him as one of its leading athletes.

Born on Nov. 22, 1872, Mr. Exley and his wife live in the large brick house at 12 Bridge street east where Mr. Exley was born. His father, a butcher in Napanee for many years, was born in Sheffield, England, and his mother was a United Empire Loyalist.

Mr. Exley was captain of the Napanee Collegiate Football team in 1891 when the school won its first Bay of Quinte area championship. He had several chances to continue in a football career but decided instead to go out west and see what that part of Canada offered to him. There he worked on a farm but before long his talents as a football player were recognized and he found himself back on the gridiron.

Again the young Walter Exley was tempted to make a career of the sport. But again after playing one season he returned to his parents in Napanee.

Mr. Exley is the only living member of the local football squad which took all local honors here in the 1890s. All members of the team went on to become prominent in their chosen professions. Charles Fox, one of the real sparkplugs of the team, later became vice-president of the Aluminum Company of America.

Mr. Exley spent the early part of his life teaching in elementary schools. Among his first pupils who are still living are James Miller of RR 3, Napanee, and Mrs. Herb Aylsworth and Vernon Booth of RR 5, Napanee.

He taught at several rural schools in the district, the yearly salary in those days was $240. And schools had about 26 pupils each. Reminiscing about his teaching days, Mr. Exley points out one former pupil who is now quite well known for his husky build. But in his elementary school days the man was the small fry of the class. Mr. Exley remembers with a smile the only way he had of stopping the child from talking was to perch him on a high cupboard isolated from the rest of the class.

Mr. Exley was teaching near Roblin when he met his wife, the former Ethel Windover. They were married on September 30, 1903. The Exleys have three children.

They are Vivian, Mrs. John Caldwell of RR 2, Napanee, Marion, Mrs. Gilbert Howitt of Toronto, and Douglas of Fort William. Both Marion and Douglas followed in their father's footsteps and became school teachers.

Marion's first school was at Bethany where Mr. Exley first began his teaching career over 70 years ago.

A second son, Walter, former clerk - treasurer of Lennox and Addington County, died in an automobile accident last year. Another child died when he was eight years old. The Exleys have 12 grandchildren and one great-grand-child.

Mr. Exley soon found that $240 a year was hardly enough to support a family of seven and worked in his father's butcher shop on the market square. Then about 1910 he received the position of liquor inspector for both the federal and provincial governments.

Until about 1935 he carried out this job successfully. It was at this time that an automobile accident in Belleville left him partially disabled and sent him to hospital for one year.

Mr. Exley has served on town council and was active in the Napanee volunteer fire department.

He remembers Napanee's present town hall when it was just a large collection of booths used for selling meat and he speaks of other progress in the town with remarkable accuracy.

He is in good health and his memory for dates is outstanding.

Mr. Exley also excelled in baseball and hockey. He played as pitcher and goaltender in these games and did quite a bit of coaching.

He never misses a sporting event on television and he says that he is a Kingston fan in inter-collegiate football play and that Toronto Maple Leafs get his support when the hockey season rolls around.

Does he have any special plans for how he will spend the remaining years of his life? He says he hasn't.

But you can be sure he will always find time to watch the latest in sports and to offer any helpful suggestions to promising young athletes in this town.
